CDC STRESSES THE IMPORTANCE OF APPROPRIATE USE OF ANTIBIOTICS

To raise awareness of the importance of appropriate antibiotic prescribing and about the concern of antibiotic resistance, the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) has developed the U.S. Antibiotic Awareness Week campaign to be held Nov. 13 through 19, 2017.

According to the CDC, antibiotics are the most commonly prescribed drugs in health care today. What's more alarming is that up to 50 percent of all antibiotics prescribed are not needed — such as in the case of antibiotics being prescribed to patients with cold viruses.

We encourage you and your patient care staff to access the online resources that the CDC has made available to health care providers and consumers on the U.S. Antibiotic Awareness Week site. You can also access these and other CDC online resources about antibiotics by visiting the Quality Management Partners in Quality Tool Kit on Highmark's online Provider Resource Center, under the Resource Center's Education/Manuals link.
